The second game of the New York-Washington series, scheduled for yesterday, had to be called in the third inning, on account of rain. The game started off well for both sides, the pitchers, Doheney and McFarland, doing good work and an exciting contest was looked for. The first shower drove the players from the field in the second inning and caused a delay of about twenty minutes. Upon resuming their places, with the grounds muddy and the ball wet, Cassidy made a bad fumble and worse throw, allowing the New Yorks to score two runs. While taking their third turn at the bat the Senators had one man on first and Mercer at the bat when the second downpour flooded the grounds and made the second postponement final. McFarland started to pitch his first game for Washington, and while he was on the rubber only a short time, he gave indications of being a first-class twirler. Cassidy was also in the game for the first sidy was also in the game for the first time, replacing Hulen at short, and while his fielding showed nothing remarkable he may prove valuable on account of his batting ability and all around work. He is a big man, fully as large as Ed McKean, the St. Louis shortstop, but is quick on his feet and possesses the necessary nerve to touch men coming down to second in clever style.

Doheney was on the rubber for the long the first week of the pennant race. Eighteen men have better percentages than .368, with which Billy Keeler led the league last season. Thirty-six men did better than .323. Big Bill Clark, who was not considered good enough for the New Yorks, leads with the fine percentage of .529, in four games played. "Little Willie" Keeler of Brooklyn, last year's leader, follows, with just .500 per cent, made in six games. Del-their first trouncing yesterday in the latter city, winning by the score of 7 to 6. The visitors batted hard, but their fielding was bad, the bunching of stick work really landing the victory. Six thousand spectators attended the game. Score:

Patsey Tebeau's team has always shown marked ability in "coming from behind." If it can play as strong "out in front" as it used to when it had something ahead of It the St. Louis team, with its present lead, is going to be a hard one to beat out. "Honest" Hans Wagner, the hard-hitting Leuisvillian, made a record for himself Tuesday. The only runs made in the game by the Colonels were home runs, and "Honby the Coloneis were home runs, and "Hon-est" Hans made both of them. Hans' long suit is putting the ball "over the garden wall." He put the Cincinnatis out of one game last year by lifting the ball over the left field fence at Louisville. While some of the good hitters of the league have not yet batted up to their records, several of the cracks did some mighty execution with the stick during the rubber for the very regular in his work in the plate puzzled the local batsmen very much. For this reason the rain was welcomed, especially after the two runs had been placed to the Glants' credit.

The same pitchers will go in again today and a close contest can be looked for, as McFarland will try and make his debut a favorable one, while Doheney is generally effective against the Senators.

OPERA BALL

sport this morning in endeavoring to ge back into their boyhood days and play the national game of base ball. Two teams were selected, one by Joe Cawthorn, whom they called "Foxy Joe" before the game was over, and the other by Nicholson, the former team winning after three innings play by the score of 23 to 10.

Cawthorn very evidently sized up his men McKean, ss. 0 3 1 4 0 Wolv't'n, 3b 0 1 1 4 0 O'Comor, 1b 1 0 16 0 1 Lange, cf... 0 0 2 0 0 Estenzel, rf... 0 0 2 1 0 Everitt, 1b 1 2 10 2 2 Tebean, 3b., 1 0 1 1 1 Demont, ss. 0 1 3 5 2 Griger, c... 1 0 1 2 0 M'Corm'k,2b 2 0 5 3 0 Estake, cf... 1 1 3 0 0 Bonahue, c. 1 2 3 1 0 Urland, c. 1 2 3 1 0 Urland player, and Eugene Cowles were on his side the former's coaching helping out consid-

> Miss Nielsen was selected as umpire, with Arlie Latham as her assistant to call out the balls and strikes. The little prima donna was patriotically and tastefully attired in a becoming suit of red, white and blue, and, like "Yankee Doodle," a tall feather stuck out from a becoming light Fedora. Her dress was dark blue, the waist white and a snugly fitted jacket was of the brightest red. As an umpire Miss Nielsen was a great success, if her inattention to the game can be overlooked, but few decisions being questioned, the only protest coming from her brother, who was promptly the ball players, and as both the New York and Washington teams were onlookers, funny play and comments always followed bis appearance at the bat. Richard went to the bat three times and never hit the ball, but he scored two runs nevertheless. At his second turn at the bat, after making first on a base on balls, he was purposely called otu at second on a safe play, and then for a few minutes the fun was fast and furious. "Dick" threw his cap on the ground, jumped on it and then walked around a circle with his chest extended—a dead ringer for an injured ball player. The professionals yelled with delight at this litthe bit of realism, Miss Nielsen enjoying the humor of the thing as well as the rest.

The feminine contingent of the company was out in full force, and being attired in brilliant and becoming raiment, added color to the occasion, their bright and merry smiles being more impressive than were smiles being more impressive than were their yells of delight or encouragement to their favorite side. About 300 other specta-tors were on hand, and it is safe to say a heartier laugh has never come their way in

As to the details of the game little can be said that would place the aspect of science upon any play that was pulled off. The different men generally caught a ball by accident, and were always surprised to see the ball remain in their bands, while at see the ball remain in their hands, while at the bat it was generally a case of "shut your eyes and bang away." Joe Cawthorn played third base for his nine, and although he had tipped his companions to the fact he had tipped his companions to the fact that he was a good player, it was always noticed that he kept out of the way of the ball as much as possible. He caught one fly, a nice little pop, that made him throw out his chest, and for which he was generously applauded. Maurice Hale was much in evidence as a batter, his triple to right field being a beauty. Everybody played hand to win for their respective teams, and although their efforts usually teams, and although their efforts usually went for nothing, they will doubtless re-member the occasion for many days to come through the aches and pains that come from unusual and violent exercise. At the conclusion of the game the defeated team was chased to high timber, and the victors bunched themselves before the kodak of Mrs. Cowles and were photographed as a souvenir of the occasion. Light liquid refreshments were on tap in abundance, the ladies in the grand stand sharing in this incidental feature of the

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD. Last Rites Over the Remains of Cor-

Funeral services over the remains of the late Cornelius Burlew were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late residence, 27 E street northwest. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Bristol, pastor of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, 41/2 and C streets, with which organization the deceased had been connected for many years. The interment was at Glenwood cemetery. Mr. Burlew was well known in this city, both in business and musical circles. He was a general contractor and came here in the year 1866, having been born in Mifflin county, Pa. He left a widow and three children, William W., Joseph M. and John N. Burlew.

Treatment of Insane in Belgium. Consul Winslow writes to the State Department from Liege, March 8, 1899, in regard to the system of caring for the insane in Belgium, which, he says, is original with that country. The patients are placed in quiet villages and are cared for in the homes of the citizens, who receive 27 cents per day for the food, clothing and care of each patient. Only the harmless insane are admitted to these colonies, and a medical director has charge of each. There is also an infirmary for the sick. The patient is allowed all possible liberties, and is made to feel that he belongs to the family in which he resides. In one colony in the province of Liege, 15 per cent of the afflicted have been entirely cured by this treatment and the condition of others much improved.

ALLEGED VIOLATION OF LAW. Charles A. Gibson and Hattle Wise

the Defendants. A violation of the Edmunds law was alleged against Charles A. Gibson and Hattle G. Wise in the Police Court this morning, and the case was continued until Tuesday. The warrants for their arrest was sworn out by Mrs. Anna H. Gibson, wife of defendant-Gibson. She lives at 505 East Capitol street, while her husband lives at No. 1602 13th street. He is clerk of the House committee on agriculture, and Hattie Wise, who is colored, was employed by him as a domestic. Mrs. Gibson was a widow and lived in Norfolk at the time of her marriage. Some time ago husband and wife separated, and the latter returned to Norfolk. A suit for maintenance was instituted, but later a reconciliation was effected. Recently the wife accused her husband of being untrue to her, a quarrel ensued, it is said, and again the wife left her husband and went to Capitol Hill to live.

Both Mr. Gibson and Hattie Wise deny the charges. They gave bond for their appearance. Attorney Jefford appeared as counsel in the case, and because of other engagements he had the cases postponed.
